

Charitable Bunching with a Donor Advised Fund

A popular giving strategy to maximize the new tax law

Under the new tax law, the standard deduction is now nearly double - $12,000 for individuals and $24,000 for married couples - making it harder for people to itemize on their tax return and benefit from the charitable income tax deduction.

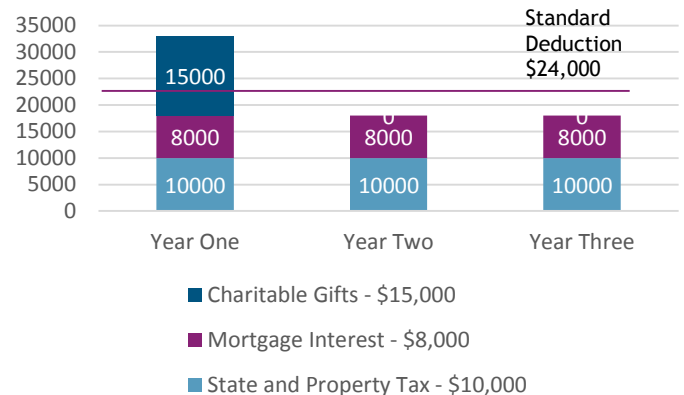

One way to take advantage of the new tax law: Charitable Bunching with a Donor Advised Fund. National and local experts are recommending this smart giving strategy, which is essentially bunching multiple years' worth of donations into one calendar year. The benefit of bunching with a Donor Advised Fund allows you to receive an immediate tax deduction and give back to nonprofits when the time is right for you through a convenient charitable giving account.

Scenario 1: Not Bunching

In the scenario above, a married couple is $1,000 short of the standard deduction each year, thus receiving no tax benefit for the deductions. Over the three-year period, the couple has a total cash outlay of $69,000 and receives $72,000 of standard deductions.

Scenario 2: Bunching with a Donor Advised Fund

In the scenario above, a married couple makes a gift of $15,000 into a Donor Advised Fund. Over the three-year period, the couple has the same total cash outlay of $69,000, but receives $81,000 of itemized deductions - an additional $9,000 of deductions compared to Scenario 1.
